

2015

Persons With Disabilities And International Human Rights Law: Introduction

Claudia Martin

Diego Rodríguez-Pinzón

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.wcl.american.edu/auilr>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

Martin, Claudia, and Diego Rodríguez-Pinzón. "Persons With Disabilities And International Human Rights Law: Introduction." American University International Law Review 30 no. 2 (2015): 175-176.

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Washington College of Law Journals & Law Reviews at Digital Commons @ American University Washington College of Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in American University International Law Review by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ American University Washington College of Law. For more information, please contact fbrown@wcl.american.edu.

PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES AND INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS LAW

INTRODUCTION

CLAUDIA MARTIN & DIEGO RODRÍGUEZ-PINZÓN*

We are delighted to present this year's publication of the Academy on Human Rights and Humanitarian Law, which includes the three best essays in English and in Spanish recognized in the 2014 Human Rights Essay Award competition. It is satisfying to think that this competition allowed a record-setting number of participants an opportunity to expound their thoughts on so many important topics and areas of the world. We hope these participants are able to use their articles as mechanisms for change.

The quality of the essays was outstanding making the final decision difficult. We would like to recognize everyone that participated in the competition and mainly the winner, Vida Eugenia Gómez Asturias from El Salvador. In addition, a final decision would not be possible without the exceptional work from the members of the Honor Jury who read and evaluated the articles.

The goal of this publication and of the competition is to provide an academic venue for scholarly legal writing by human rights experts and activists. By publishing their work, we seek to contribute quality legal writings on particular topics of relevance to the development of this dynamic area of the law. The book also reflects the diversity of cultures and languages that characterizes our interconnected world. By publishing articles in English and Spanish, we enhance and broaden the voices that shape international human rights and humanitarian law in the future.

We want to thank, Sara Sabour, Editor-in-Chief, and Alexandra Arango, Academy on Human Rights and Humanitarian Law Book

*Co-Directors, Academy on Human Rights and Humanitarian Law.

Editor, of the American University International Law Review, for their dedication and hard work, which make this, project a reality. Publishing in two languages is especially demanding and we would like to recognize American University International Law Review's effort in this project. It is imperative to acknowledge the vision of its editors to foresee that the future of the international community rests on our ability to enrich our views with other people's ideas and cultures.

Finally, we want to thank the staff of the American University International Law Review and volunteers who diligently worked throughout this endeavor.