Letter from the Editor

Dear Readers,

We are very excited to welcome you all to the fifth volume of The Arbitration Brief. The Arbitration Brief is a student publication of the American University Washington College of Law. The Arbitration Brief aims to become a leading academic publication for arbitration-related matters in the United States and abroad.

The Arbitration Brief is an entirely student-run organization. We publish articles submitted by professors, arbitrators, practitioners, and students alike. All articles are selected, edited, and published by the Brief's editorial board and staff. We are particularly excited to publish this issue as it is the first publication since The Arbitration Brief went out of circulation in 2014.

The Arbitration Brief would like to thank the authors of this issue for their patience, responsiveness, and cooperation with our editorial board as we revised their articles. The Arbitration Brief staff would like to also specially acknowledge Professor Horacio Grigera-Naón, Dr. Björn Arp, Professor Padideh Ala'i, and Susana Castiglione for their continuous support and assistance while The Arbitration Brief reorganized over this past calendar year. Additionally, without guidance from the Center on Commercial International Arbitration, this publication would not have been possible. Lastly, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to the brief's talented editorial board, staff, and additional contributors who worked tirelessly to make this issue a reality.

Please explore our website for more information about The Arbitration Brief. If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to arbitrationbrief@wcl.american.edu.

Best Regards,
Adam Briscoe
