The Right to Freedom of Speech and International Human Rights Law: Introduction

Claudia Martin
American University Washington College of Law

Diego Rodríguez-Pinzón
American University Washington College of Law

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.wcl.american.edu/auilr

Part of the Human Rights Law Commons

Recommended Citation
THE RIGHT TO FREEDOM OF SPEECH AND INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS LAW

INTRODUCTION

CLAUDIA MARTIN & DIEGO RODRIGUEZ-PINZON*

We are delighted to present this year’s publication of the Academy on Human Rights and Humanitarian Law, which includes the three best essays in English and in Spanish submitted for the 2010 Human Rights Essay Award. It is satisfying to think that this competition allowed a record-setting number of participants an opportunity to materialize their thoughts on so many important topics and areas of the world. We hope these participants are able to use their articles as a mechanism for change.

The quality of the essays was outstanding, making the final decision difficult. We would like to recognize everyone that participated in the competition and mainly the two winners, James Forle Jarso from Kenya and Juan Camilo Rivera Rugeles from Colombia. In addition, a final decision would not be possible without the exceptional work from the members of the Honor Jury who read and evaluated the articles.

The goal of this publication and of the competition is to provide an academic venue for scholarly legal writing by human rights experts and activists. By publishing their work, we seek to contribute quality legal writings on particular topics of relevance to the development of this dynamic area of the law. The book also reflects the diversity of cultures and languages that characterizes our interconnected world. By publishing articles in English and Spanish, we enhance and broaden the voices that shape international human rights and humanitarian law in the future.

We want to thank Stephen P. Ramaley, Editor-in-Chief and Jessica

* Co-Directors, Academy on Human Rights and Humanitarian Law.
Lechuga, Academy on Human Rights and Humanitarian Law Book Editor of the American University International Law Review, for their dedication and hard work which make this project a reality. Publishing in two languages is especially demanding and we would like to recognize the law review’s effort in this project. It is imperative to acknowledge the vision of its editors to foresee that the future of the international community rests on our ability to enrich our views with other people’s ideas and cultures.

Finally, we want to thank the staff of the American University International Law Review and volunteers who diligently worked throughout this endeavor including Marisa Cabrera, Justin Carlson, Rene Carballo, Lily Cuadra, Jose Marrero, Angel Pedro Martinez, Katherine Nakazono, Emily O’Neill, Caitlin Portratz, Aaron Ramirez, Carlos Valdivia, David Wooten, and Dan Zagoren.